WHAT NEXT AFTER...
Noughts and Crosses

Other authors to look out for:
Marie Lu
Veronica Roth
Moira Young

The House of Light by Julia Green
Meet heroine Bonnie, who lives in a post-climate change totalitarian state with her grandfather and longs for freedom.

The Middler by Kirsty Applebaum
A gripping tale of forbidden friendship.

Internment by Samira Ahmed
Set in a horrifying near-future United States, 17-year-old Layla Amin and her parents are forced into an internment camp for Muslim American citizens.

Slated series by Teri Terry
Set about 40 years in the future after the UK has left the EU and closed its borders - like Noughts and Crosses, it also includes a 'terrorist' group that disagrees with the government.

How I Live Now by Meg Roscoff
15-year-old American girl Daisy is sent to England for the summer in what seems at first like it might be just after the Second World War, but isn't.

Matched series by Ally Condie
Set in a society that controls every aspect of its citizens' lives - what happens if you fall in love with someone to whom you haven't been assigned to?
